D Y Patil International University, Akurdi, Pune offers career opportunities in innovative engineering branches

Students and parents are in a frenzy over the results of CET (Common Entrance Procedure) and JEE (Joint Entrance Procedure) across the state. College and branch selection is difficult for everyone. A student's choice of branch should be one that provides a wide range of study options and career paths. D Y Patil International University, Akurdi, Pune provides career opportunities in innovative engineering branches. It includes the branches of Semiconductor Engineering, Mechanical Engineering (Smart Manufacturing and Energy Engineering).

In the world of rapidly changing technology, the demand for more powerful and efficient semiconductor devices is increasing. Innovations such as artificial intelligence, 5G and renewable energy will further increase opportunities in the semiconductor sector. As part of its initiative 'Development of Semiconductors and Display Manufacturing Ecosystem' in India, the Center has approved the setting up of three new semiconductor manufacturing facilities. It is the government's effort to make India a semiconductor manufacturing center or hub thereby taking India a significant step towards technological self-reliance and global competitiveness. Students have to play an important role in technological advancement to meet the needs of emerging industries.

D Y Patil International University has prioritized the recommendations of experts in the field while designing the curriculum and providing state-of-the-art infrastructure to the students. As the Semiconductor industry is expected to grow exponentially, the University provides students with the knowledge, skills and resources required to excel in this dynamic field. This is why all these students will benefit from the thousands of new jobs that will be created by the semiconductor revolution in the near future.

According to a report by 'Team Lease Degree Apprenticeship', by 2027, India's semiconductor industry may require 250,000 to 300,000 technicians in various fields including research, development, manufacturing, design and advanced packaging. According to the estimates of 'India

Semiconductor Engineering - An Opportunity to Capture the Future

Every student who wants to take admission in engineering after 12th has many established branches like mechanical, civil, electrical, computer, electronics etc. But still I wish to do something different. To all such students I would definitely recommend Semiconductor Engineering as a separate branch for their bright future.

What exactly is in semiconductor

Electronics and Semiconductor Association', by 2027, the semiconductor industry in India will require 15 lakh skilled workers and 50 lakh semi-skilled workers. It includes related skills such as chip design, manufacturing, testing, materials, chemicals and logistics. The government's policy has always been to cooperate with leading semiconductor companies like Infosys, Wipro, Tata Motors, HCL, TCS, L&T. Apart from that there is a growing demand for Indian semiconductor technicians in countries like USA, Taiwan, UK, Canada, Korea, Germany, Japan and China. And therefore, if the students consider Semiconductor Engineering as a priority, then their bright future will be established here.

Mechanical Engineering - All-inclusive useful branch

The Indian industrial system has undergone many structural changes over the years. In order to reduce our dependence on foreign industries for many small things, the central government has implemented many ambitious projects like Start Up India, Make in India. Therefore, successful efforts have been made to develop the skills of the youth of our own country and create a business worth billions of dollars in the global trade market in our own country. That is why many opportunities for success are available to every mechanical engineer and it is up to the students to make use of those opportunities.

Everyone thinks that mechanical engineering means standing for eight-eight hours on very big machines, working with your hands dirty. But the situation has changed with time. That is why D Y Patil International University has now included Smart Manufacturing and Energy Engineering in the Mechanical Engineering curriculum keeping in mind the future needs. For that, the needs of the modern industry have been known. Therefore, students will be able to study advanced technologies like automation, artificial intelligence, internet of things, robotics, data analysis. Traditional manufacturing often relies heavily on human involvement and is therefore less flexible and efficient. On the other hand, while implementing smart manufacturing processes, the objectives of increasing product quality and reducing costs are achieved by gathering accurate information over time, performing predictive maintenance and effectively connecting all systems to each other. As mechanical engineering students learn all these, their knowledge and personality automatically become indispensable to the industry. Hence the career opportunity to work as Digital Twin Engineer, Supply Chain Analyst, System Integration Specialist, Process Optimization Consultant.

Energy Engineering is a pivotal component of the Mechanical Engineering program at D Y Patil International University. This field encompasses the generation, distribution, and efficient utilization of energy, focusing on minimizing environmental impact across industrial processes. Graduates are well-prepared for diverse career paths as Renewable Energy Engineers, Energy Efficiency Consultants, Power Plant Engineers, Energy Policy Analysts, Energy Systems Analysts, and Environmental Engineers or Consultants. Considering the comprehensive training and industry-relevant skills gained, pursuing Mechanical Engineering at D Y Patil International University presents a compelling career choice, in my honest opinion.
