

Call for better vigil as e-SIM scams target smartphone users

Police advise users to remain cautious as nearly ₹7 crore has been lost to fraudsters exploiting KYC updates, QR codes to hack banking information

The Hindu Bureau
KOZHIKODE

Noticing an increase in SIM swap scams, the city police have issued a fresh round of alerts to all smartphone users, who are seemingly the soft targets for invisible operators behind e-SIM frauds.

Cyber cell officers said that all suspicious calls made in the name of customer care executives requesting to upgrade existing SIM cards should be rejected as a primary step to safety amid rising number of phone number hijacking cases and related bank account hacking.

Police officers with the Hi-tech Crime Investigation Cell, who circulated the alerts on social media platforms for better reach, revealed that nearly 100 such complaints had already been registered across the country, with complainants losing around ₹7 crore. They also revealed that around 20 cases had been registered in Kerala.

"Usually, the scammers made calls claiming that one needed to upgrade the existing physical SIM to e-SIM by updating the KYC details. People who followed their instructions would automatically receive a QR Code. The moment one exchanged the QR code with them, the operation became a success, and they took control of the newly created e-SIM to retrieve all related banking information," said a senior police officer with the Kerala Police Cyberdome.

As soon as the physical SIM was deactivated, victims found themselves in a perplexing situation and would only discover the related banking fraud after reactivating the blocked physical SIM, he added.

As e-SIMs can be programmed and operated remotely with software support, tracking such incidents also proves to be a herculean task for the cyber squads.

Helpline

Such incidents can be reported to the official helpline-1930. According to cyber cell officers, the intelligent practice is to reject all unfamiliar social media calls and to avoid exchanging confidential data with unknown people.

"Earlier, many had the belief that only senior citizens were the targets of such online fraudsters. The nature of cases now being reported proves that even well-educated professionals are falling prey to such traps," said a senior police officer who had been associated with the investigation of numerous cybercrimes in the city.

Kerala, Karnataka have same mindset against communalism, says Siddaramaiah

The Hindu Bureau
MALAPPURAM

Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah said that both Kerala and Karnataka had the same mindset against communalism. He urged the new generation to take inspiration from the life of former Congress leader Aryadan Mohammed, a leader who upheld secularism throughout his life.

Mr. Siddaramaiah was speaking after presenting the Aryadan Award for the best politician instituted by the Aryadan Mohammed Foundation to All India Congress Committee general secretary K.C. Venugopal in Nilambur on Wednesday.

Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah presenting the Aryadan Award to AICC general secretary K.C. Venugopal at Nilambur on Wednesday. SAKEEER HUSSAIN

The occasion marked the second death anniversary of Aryadan Mohammed.

He said Kerala's Sree Narayana Guru and Karnataka's Basavanna were philosophers who took a strong stand against communalism. Both of them said the same thing for the unity of human beings, but in different words, he said.

Mr. Siddaramaiah praised Mr. Venugopal for working tirelessly for the resurgence of the Congress at national level. "It was Mr. Venugopal who advised me to try one more constituency when I decided to contest from Chamundessary constituency in 2018. I lost in Chamundessary but was elected from Badami. KC's advice was a turning point in my political career," he said.

He said Mr. Venugopal was the inspiration behind five guarantee projects implemented by the Karnataka government aimed at social justice and people's welfare. Mr. Venugopal accepted the award comprising ₹1 lakh in cash and a citation from Mr. Siddaramaiah. He said the award was too emotional and sweet. Leader of the Opposition V.D. Satheesan presided over the function.

Woman actor files anticipatory bail plea

The Hindu Bureau
KASARGOD

A Kochi-based woman actor, who had accused several prominent actors, including M. Mukesh, of sexual harassment, has filed an anticipatory bail application in the Kasargod District Sessions Court in connection with a Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) case against her.

The plea, submitted by advocate Sangeet Lewis from Karnataka, was heard by the court on Wednesday.

The court has adjourned the matter to September 30 for further arguments.

The POCSO case had earlier been reportedly registered against the actor following her allegations.

Fearing arrest, she had sought protection through anticipatory bail.

In her petition, she had mentioned the existence of a case filed at a police station, although details of the case remained unclear.

Her allegations were made in the aftermath of the Hema Committee report which revealed sexual exploitation in the Malayalam film industry.
