Health care delivery in Jammu & Kashmir

It is rightly said that "Health is Wealth", health is the most important asset of a human being. Today, there are improvements in the health sector of India by leaps and bounds compared to the 20th Century. Prime Minister Narendra Modi deserves a big applause for launching the Ayushman Bharat Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (AB-PMJAY) SEHAT scheme. The main aim behind the scheme is to extend health insurance coverage to all residents of Jammu and Kashmir. - Here the term SEHAT stands for Social, Endeavour for Health and Telemedicine. Recently Jammu and Kashmir government reiterated its commitment to provide quality health care services to the people of J&K. It is nice that the Jammu & Kashmir government is eyeing investment of over Rs4,000 crore in the medical sector with a twin purpose of enhancing medical facilities as well as increasing availability of hospital beds and MBBS seats in the Union territory. Jammu and Kashmir has become the first among Indian states and UTs to offer free health insurance to all its residents. There are 20,306 government hospitals in the country. Rajasthan leads with 3,145 hospitals and Jammu and Kashmir stands at the number two with 2,812 hospitals. Government Hospitals provide health care free for the Indian citizens. In Jammu and Kashmir there are also the hospitals run by the State. However the people complaint more about poor healthcare facilities. At present the state has over 5800 doctors, 12855 hospital beds in the government institutions and private aided institutions, including 4 Medical Colleges, 22 District Hospitals, 2 Ayurvedic hospitals, 273 Ayurvedic dispensaries, 2 Unani hospitals, 235 Unani dispensaries. Govt institutions need to upgrade their services at par with the upcoming private hospitals to retain the tag of major service provider in J&K. It is to be appreciated that the National Health Mission and the National Rural Health Mission are institutions set up by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare and function at a national and state level with an aim of providing basic health care delivery system to all areas of Jammu, including the interiors of Jammu. There are hospitals in India excelling in standards when compared to any hospital in the UK or the US. There are skilled surgeons and physicians in India who have made a mark in their respective fields. But the most unfortunate thing is, the services of these surgeons and physicians have not reached all sections of the population. Many villages are devoid of any health centres and if they are present, their effectiveness is limited due to the shortage or unavailability of staff, insufficient medicines, and infrastructure problems, among others. This means that for a medicine as basic as paracetamol, villagers have to walk four kilometres up and down the hilly trail. This Healthcare Investment Policy aims to realize the UT's obligation of providing quality and effective healthcare to its citizens and to take healthcare service to the door steps of the masses so as to ensure availability of the complete gamut of healthcare services in the primary, secondary and tertiary care sectors to the people of the UT. In order for people to maintain a proper health, they should have proper health care systems. Only then people will be able to take care of their health and get treatment when they are suffering from any sort of sickness. (B-15 Jyoti-Kalash Society, Jodhpur Tekra, Satellite, Ahmedabad - 380 015)

For the first time in its diplomatic history, Indo-Canadian diplomatic ties have reached the nadir of hostility only known to Pakistan. While this author has covered Canada's deteriorating ties with India over the last few years amidst the dystopian state of Canadian administration itself, it is fair to say that India-Canada diplomatic ties are now completely broken and unlikely to be revived under the Justin Trudeau government. As of this moment, India has recalled its High Commissioner from Canada as well as summoned and expelled six Canadian diplomats, including the High Commissioner.

Unlike the past, the Ministry of External Affairs has its gloves off without the diplomatic armour of data and context-setting that has been usual with this administration. Instead, it has clearly called out Justin Trudeau's administration as being supportive of terrorism and his coalition partner as a separatist regarding India for the first time. The territorial integrity of India has for some time been a matter of casual contemplation rather than hard geopolitical reality for certain parts of the Canadian and American governments. They have not merely pondered to but actively encouraged narco-terrorist syndicates funding secessionism in India. This has gone on for years without the Indian government demarcating its red lines. It is finally doing so.

The recall of the Indian High Commissioner comes directly after the Canadian government named him and other diplomats as "persons of interest" in an investigation. The government has put its full weight behind supporting its senior diplomats and has cited threats to their lives and wellbeing as the reason for their return to India. This is the second time in less than a week that MEA statements have reflected upon the poverty of engagement between the countries; while the Canadian Prime Minister claimed engagement with Prime Minister Narendra Modi on the sidelines of the Laos Summit, the Indian side dismissed it as "unsubstantive". What is interesting is that India is now certain that any evidence regarding Hardeep Singh Nijjar's murder is not forthcoming from the Trudeau administration despite Five Eyes involvement last year, despite Charge d'Affaires Stewart Wheeler's statement. At the same time, the US State Department has suddenly deleted its page about an Indian investigative committee that was due to go to Washington, DC, with regards to an ongoing investigation into a purported assassination attempt on Sikhs for Justice (SFJ) founder Gurpatwant Singh Pannun. An Indian citizen, Nikhil Gupta, stands accused. To also be remembered is that National Security Adviser Ajit Doval skipped visiting the US last month for the Quad Summit after Pannun filed suit against him in American Court. Officially, no reasons were provided by the government. What the events in Canada signal to its big brother with regards to the permissibility of attacks on Indian sovereignty, including attacks on Indian consulates in Canada and the US in contravention of the Vienna Convention, remains to be seen. Accomplished diplomat and former Indian Ambassador to the Netherlands, Bhaswati Mukherjee publicly echoed the sentiments of the MEA that Trudeau's attempts to cling to power domestically have pushed him to destroy the Indo-Canadian relationship. This is ongoing even as Canada's dependence on China continues to grow. Former Indian Foreign Secretary, Kanwal Sibal, cites it as "gross diplomatic misbehaviour". At this time, Trudeau suffers significant political instability within his own party as 20 Liberal MPs have signed a pact for a change in leadership. This makes him a dangerous political animal, even more dependent on pro-terrorist Khalistani supporter Jagmeet Singh, who is vocally anti-India. It is not unlikely that the latest turn of events was merely meant as a domestic signal to ensure the continued support of Singh's New Democratic Party (NDP) but functioned as the final straw for India's government that has withstood the attacks on its Consulate as well as its citizens under the Trudeau regime. While India's official language has been surprisingly harsh considering precedent, the Canadian misreporting of events remains unsurprisingly inaccurate. The Canadian government is in overdrive to try and deny India's move to withdraw its personnel. Instead, it seems to have rapidly interfaced with reporters from prominent publications within Canada and abroad to term this withdrawal as an ouster by Canada itself. This was also quickly crafted for the Washington Post by rabid Indophobe Gerry Shih, who conflates the issue of Khalistan with the Sikh religion, a convenient method of gaslighting that has been used by Western powers to harangue India on international platforms. Interestingly, such framings are almost in serendipitous harmony with what Indian Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi has recently stated on foreign shores, prompting Indian Sikhs to come out in force and counter his claims of being unsafe in India. These escalations are no longer incremental but rather drastic, causing increasing speculation that the US is deeply involved and is likely to wade into the fray soon on behalf of Canada. India has so far maintained perfect diplomatic composure while maintaining status quo and respecting international borders. Despite ongoing demands for a free Quebec, no Indian diplomat would think to breed terrorism against the Canadian people in favour of political convenience. On the other hand, it has been a Khalistani habit to engage with Khalistani extremists who are designated criminals in India on visits to the country as well as within Canadian borders. The implied racism in also allowing the perpetrators of the biggest terror attack on Canadian territory to roam free and the lack of media interest in the coverage of the Kanishka bombing since the victims were largely non-white Canadian citizens is not missed. The situation is rapidly evolving, and Trudeau's government has also been addressed by the MEA as a regime, similar to language used for nations militarily hostile to India. His mismanagement of necessary ties spells disaster for Indo-Canadian relations in the near future.
